

Itchy Wants To Fly

By Ellen Love

JubileeJam
a Jubilee Jam adventure book

Written by
ELLEN LOVE
Creative Direction by
ELLEN LOVE

Art Direction & Layout by ASHLEY MILLER

Illustrations by FRANCOIS BOUTET
for Franfou Studio

©2008. All rights reserved.

Printed & bound in China
by Jubilee Jam Inc.

www.jubileejam.net

Little bitty Itchy so wanted to be Like all the bright big butterflies
he saw in Jubilee.

So he tried and he tried,
he did everything he could

And he hoped
and he hoped,
that one day
he finally would

Have big beautiful wings,
and then he could also fly
like all the other butterflies
he saw way up in the sky.

But try as he might,
he could never make wings grow.
He fretted that they would always be above
and he would always be below.

So Itchy grew quite sad,
there was nothing left to try.
He decided to accept that he would never fly.

And then one day
as Itchy crawled up into a tree,
Why who came by to cheer him up,
but Nissi and all of Jubilee.

“Don’t worry little Itchy,”
they told him,
“one day you WILL fly.
Oh yes, we guarantee it!”
said all the Angel Pies.

And then the Handy Heroes sang Itchy a new song.

“You really will fly one day,
it won’t be very long.
You won’t always be a worm.
You will fly out of this tree.
Just keep on believing and one day you will be a butterfly with wings,
you’ll soar higher than a kite.
So let your heart have courage,
you’re destined to take flight.”

Not sure what to think, Itchy decided just to rest.
He knew he'd done all he could. He knew he'd done his best.

So Itchy slept and he slept through the longest, darkest night.
He dreamed of soaring higher, he dreamed they might be right.

Then as morning slowly came as the sun began to rise Itchy started to wake up,
and much to his surprise.
He looked in pure amazement.
He could not believe his eyes.

He no longer was a little worm, for he had sprouted wings.
Now he could fly like the others, and he could do great things.

They were right Itchy thought,
they were right all along.
I wasn't what I thought,
No, I had been all wrong.

Now I too can fly up in the sky
where the air is fresh and clean.
And I can do more than I've done and see more than I've seen.

Always believe in the possibilities of YOU
You just never know what one day you may do.

For buried in your heart are all sorts of dreams
And with a little faith and courage they too can sprout big wings.

Dreams have wings!

Itchy Wants To Fly

By Ellen Love

Come visit the adorable Itchy
and his special friends.

Watch as his dreams come true
in the magical world of Jubilee Jam.

JubileeJam

a Jubilee Jam adventure book

Discover the treasures of Jubilee Jam's Magical World!

WEB GAMES ★ ACTIVITIES ★ ADVENTURES

www.jubileejam.net

ISBN 978-1-60725-674-8

9 0000 >

9 781607 256748